WINS THE BIG S10,000 RACE AT SARATOGA.

watercure and Watercolor Aire Finish in the Meney—Flash Stekes for Gete-smith—Smeke Who Fourth and Resemble Seventh Streight Victory.

SARATOGA, Aug. 6.—The season of racing in these parts under the management of the New Saratoga Racing Amociation opened in a blase of glory to-day. The weather was of the most pleasant kind, the attendance was large, in fact one of the largest seen at a meeting here in years, and the racing was first class in every way. In the ring all the prominent members of the Metropolitan Turf Association were in line, but they reserved a rough deal at the hands of the players, rominent memors of the metropolitan furf Association were in line, but they reeved a rough deal at the hands of the players, for the horses ran true to form and in five out of the six races run, the first choices were successful. At one time during the day the layers received quite a scare. In view of the trouble among the gambling houses here, there were reports circulated that the gamblers might make trouble for the men who laid the odds in the ring. Between the second and third races the tip was apread to take down the slates which was done in a hurried manner, but it turned out to be a false alarm. When the bookmakers put the little slates aside, they chalked the odds on the ordinary programmes, but this only lasted for one race, and the betting during the rest of the day was conducted in the insual way. HAURI WAY.

The card of six races was excellent and the Saratoga Handicap, which was the main event of the day, eutranized all the big handicaps on the metropolitan circuit, both in the way of entries and from a racing standpoint. Eleven of the best horses in training had been named as probable starters and it was pleasing to note that not one declined. The public figured that the race for first money was between the three-year-olds Watercolor was between the three-year-olds Watercolor and The Parader, with the result that all the was between the three-year-olds Watercolor and The Parader, with the result that all the "wise money" went on them Water-color's easy victory in the two races he ran at Brighton earned for him the most support and he closed the choice at 2 to 1. The other horses in the race were all supported to a considerable extent, particularly the black mare Imp, who was making her debut of the season. The race saw the defeat of the public choices, as the victory went to Rockton, a 10 to 1 chance, who carried W. H. Sealey's colors on the big tracks for the first time this season.

The horses were at the post for nearly three-quarters of an hour before they got away. Watercolor was the chief offender and on several occasions he spoiled the chances of a start, while The Parader size took a hand. Finaly the flag fell with the field in fair order and Turner sent Kockton right to the front. He raced with Imp and All Gold for a while and then shock them both off only to be challenged by Watercolor on the far turn. A that point it looked as if it was all over but the shouting for Watercolor, as he was apparently going the easier of the two. But in the run through the stretch he began to tire and then Watercure, who had been just to jeave the post, closed with a rush. Both Watercolor and Watercure made an attempt to overhaul Rockton in the last furlong, but they failed to do so and Rockton won by two lengths, with Watercure half a length before Watercolor. There were some big bets made on the winner in the ring and it is said that Senator T. D. Suillivan was among those who knew of the good thing, having wagered $400 to win $4,000. Spencer, the rider of Watercolor, was set down for four days for misbehavior at the post.

The Flash Stakes was the next event of interest and nine two-year-olds started interest and nine two-year-olds started.

was set down for four days for misbehavior at the post.

The Flash Stakes was the next event of interest and nine two-year-olds started. The Morris stable witherew Compute and added Hanover Queen, while G. E. Smith withdrew Bonner and added Chilton. Lux Casta and Golden Cottage were also added. Goldsmith, W. C. Whitney's representative, was the favorite for the race, but a lot of money found its way into the ring on Chilton, while enough was bet on Lux Casta to force his odds from 15 to 1 down to 7 to 1. The good thing falled to land and Turner, who rode Goldsmith, put up one of the greatest inishes seen this year. Lux Casta made the greater part of the running with Chilton, and it appeared to be between the pair until a hundred years from the wire, when Turner brought Goldsmith up with a rush and fairly lifted his mount across the line a short head to the good.

A race for all ages at seven furlongs began the day's sport with Smoke the favorite and winner, but her backers were exceedingly lucky. She and Isidor had it hammer and tongs all the way from the start, and at the sixteenth pole it looked like Isidor's race, as Smoke was pinned on the rail. But O'Connor rode desperately and his good work was re-rode desperately and his good work was rewarded, for getting through in the final stride and outriding Shaw, he landed Smoke winner by a head. This was Smoke's fourth straight win.

Dolando was backed down to odds on to win the second race, which he did, but again it was a close cell, as the margin at the finish was only a neck. Lone Fisherman, who finished second, was the better horse of the two, but Thompson could not finish with Shaw.

finished second, was the better horse of the two, but Thompson could not finish with Shaw.

Nine two-year-olds took part in the fifth race, with Gay Boy the choice at odds on, and he won also. He went to the front at the end of the first quarter and stayed there, although Odom came vary near tossing the money away by eaging his mount up too soon, as Dark Secret, the second choice, all but nipped Gay Boy.

Rochampton scared all but three out of the last race and was made an odds-on favorite. He kept up his good work by landing his seventh straight race, even though he got a bungling ride from O'Connor.

John Madden to-day sold his reported world-beater Heno to Clarence H. Mackay, who will reserve him for the Futurity. Heno is a two-year-old who has never started, but he is said to be even better than Blue Girl, the two-year-old filly in Madden's stable who has captured most of the big races run this year. Madden would not tell the price given, but he admitted that it was a very large amount. The summaries:

In the first the New forks made the visitors exert themselves to the limit to win, the set-to roing to eleven innings, while in the second the hustling Quakers played rings around the disconnoiate Harism band. Rocky fielding helped the New forks to lose in both instances. Mathewson and his fellow young blood, Townsend, showed effective pitching spells in the first game, but the Quaker was steadier than the Gotham boxman. The hits off him were far too acatered to insure a victory, while the Quakers bunched four hits on Mathewson in the second inning. The Philadelphia pitcher siso finished the stronger. After pitching in his entire the second, Mathewson wablied in the elevanth and his support wablied with him, Delehanty led off with a base hit in the second inning and Morariand awung his cudgel for similar results, Del going to third base. The second game was a still sadder story for the New Yorks. When the smoke had cleared away the locals were discovered with nine goose-eggs in their possession. They could not make more than a hit an inning off Duggleby and their support of Taylor was poor. Thomas made the rounds in the first inning on a base on balls, a single, a base on balls and siy. A single by Duggleby bunts by Thomas and Wolverton, the second of which gave Hickman a chance for a wild throw. Flick's scratch fly and a base on balls to Delebanty lot the Quakers score three runs in the third. In the seventh inning Flick hammered a triple to centre, Delebanty picked out a slow ball and metamorphosed it into base hit and Douglass oracked out a double These vigorous doings, together with an out and a wild pitch, produced three more runs. At St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. 5.—Delightful weather drew a large crowd to Delmar this atternoon. O'Neill rode three winning mounts. Summary:

A base on balls to Thomas, Flick's single and Davis's error accounted for a journey of the bases by two Quakers in the eighth inning. In the ninth Jennings singled. Hallman hit to Hickman who threw to second base. There was nobody at that bag and Jennings ambled to third and Hallman to second on the stupid play. Jennings score when Davis robbed Cross of a hit by a splendid step and threw Monte out at first. The score:

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The Bostons defeated the Brooklyns in a close game this afternoon. Willis and Donovan contributed largely toward making the contest interesting and although the former was hit more frequently than Donovan, he pitched decidedly the best balk. The Bostons took the lead in the first inning. Slagle led off with a double. Tenny followed with a scratch single and went to second on Farrell's through over Kelley's head. Slagle scoring. The Champions got their only run in the fourth, when Kelley drew a pass and went to third on Daly's double. Kelley scored upon Dahlen's fly to left. No more runs were scored until the eighth. Kittridge singled. Willis hit to Donovan and the latter threw to Daly to make a double play but Daly allowed the ball to go through him and both base runners were safe. Slagle drew a pass and Kittridge scored on Tenney's fly to left. The score:

BREEZE. NAVAHOE AND RAINBOW FINISH

CINCINNATI, 10: CHICAGO, 7.

CINCINNATI, AUG. 5.—In a game poorly pitched on both sides the Cincinnatis beas the Chicagos to-day. The only remarkable feature of the contest, aside from the heavy cannonading, was that every one of the kedaruns was made after two hands were out. Beokley hit for the round trip in the first. It was one of the queerest home runs ever made on the lot. The ball was driven past Dexter and, bounding up the embankment, hugged the fence all the way out past Chance. The score: Allea Six Seconds Ahead of the Vigilant, and Rainbow Fifty-five Seconds in Front of the Virginia—W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.'s Yacht Sets Protest Flag. NEWFORT, Aug. 5.—The race to-day between the three yawls and the two seventy-footers was not exactly a success from the fact that the wind was light, and shifting twice after the start made the entire race, with the exception of about twenty minutes, a broad reach. The morning promised fair for a good contest, but the wind did not hold. The race between the vawie was for the cur The race between the yawls was for the cup won by the Navahoe on July 29, in a walk-over, and it again went to her to-day, she taking the lead after rounding the outer mark and walking away from her two commark and walking away from her two com-petitors. The eventy-footers raced for a cup offered by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr. and it was won by Cornelius Vanderbilt's Rainbow from W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr's, Vir-ginia. the seventies had a one-gun start.

The steam yacht Mirage was the committee boat, and Messrs. A Cass Canfield and Woodbury Kane, members of the Regatta Committee of the Newport Yacht Racing Committee of the Newport Yacht Racing Association, consented to serve on the committee. The course was twelve miles to leeward and return, and when the Mirage took up her position off the lightship at 10:30 o'clock the wind was north by east. The racers were soon out, all carrying their big club topsails. There was one woman aboard the yachts, Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll on the Navahos, and she proved to be the mascot, although for a time it looked as if the boat was going to be beaten badly.

At it o'clock the warning signal was given and five minutes later the preparatory signal, when the big boats began to Jockey for positions. There was little choice, and when the starting signal was given at 11:10 o'clock and five minutes later the preparatory signal, when the big boats began to jockey for positions. There was little choice, and when the starting signal was given at 11:10 o'clock all three had a free wind. The Alisa was the first to cross, setting her spinnaker in quick order to atarboard. The Navahoe followed a minute later and the Vigilant last, being handicapped sixteen seconds. The start between the 70-footers, Ralabow and Vigilant, was more exciting, as seconds told with them. As they got the starting signal they were shooting along parallel with the line. They crossed within thirteen seconds of each other, and spinnaker booms were run out, but the sails were not broken out, as a luffing match was in order, the Rainbow holding the luff. They continued at this until way off their course and when finally they filled away and broke out their apinnakers they were in close quarters.

Soon aftr this the Virginia set her protest flag, which was answered by the committee boat. The cause for it could not be seen, unless Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., stated that, having established an overlap, the Rainbow had no right to luff. At 1151 o'clock the wind came out from the southward very light, but it necessitated the taking in of apinnakers, making it a broad reach to the mark. When this was done there was no relative change in the position of the yawls, but the Virginia had passed the Rainbow to windward. All the boats took in the ballooners with the exception of the Alisa, and she carried here from start to finish. The wind continued to lighten and when the yachts had passed Point Judith it was so light that they had all they could do to stem the tide, which was carrying them to leeward fast. About ten minutes before the vachts recubed the mark the wind again shifted, this time to the northeast, but it came in little puffs, first giving one boat an advantage and then another. In this way the Rainbow not only left the Virginia far astern, but had oven passed the Virgina. He recube the minutes. The Alisa was first, followe

BIG SLOOPS AT BRISTOL.

Constitution and Columbia Undergoing Changes at Herreshoff Shops. BRISTOL, Aug. 5.-Bristol harbor this morning presented a more animated appearance than usual from the operations in re-fitting the 90-footers for the next series of races beginning on Saturday. Off the Her-rishoff shops were anchored two of the big sloops. The Constitution was in the hands of the riggers and other mechanics, the work being pushed along with air progress toward a finish. The Columbia arrived at 7 o'clock this morning in tow of the tender Park City from Newport, and was partly dismantled the middle of the forenoon. Rafts, scows and rowboats were continually plying back and forth between the shore and the boats. carrying out new fittings and bringing back things that needed repairing, or were con-demned as hardly fit for the strain expected things that needed repairing, or were condemned as hardly fit for the strain expected of them.

The riggers had not this forenoon adjusted the permanent shrouds to the new mainmast for the Constitution, the spar being held in place since Saturday afternoon by temporary stays, both at the sides and fore and at. Little difference can be noticed between the length of the new spar and the old one as viewed from the shore, one-eighth of a mile distant. The decks of the new boat were alive with mechanics, mostly riggers, while other riggers were aloft hooking the lower spreaders in place and hooking up the shorter backstays and preventer backstays. The mainmast was stepped on the same platform saturday without any shift whatever, so that the new stick stands just as plumb as did the old one. With good weather the Constitution will be rigged and ready for sailing by Thursday.

The Columbia came up the bay this morning to have her boom changed. She buckled her main boom at the finish of a race with the Constitution at Brenton's Reef Lightship a month ago. The boom was soon afterward repaired and has been lying on the pler ever since. The shorter boom was unhung this morning after the mainsail was unbent. Several other changes are to be mage in the Columbia sing in a smail way.

W. B. Duncan, Jr., came up the bay from Newport this morning to see about the fitting out of the Constitution, spending the forenoon in watching the operations of rigging the yacht and giving directions about other work to be done. The masthead etrut was fastened this morning and part of the standing rigging hoisted aloft.

The Independence a Little Damaged in Her Race on Saturday.

NEWPORT Aug 5.—The Cup defender Columbia left Newport this morning for Bris-Celumbia left Newport this morning for Bristol, where she is to have some changes made to her boom. The Independence did not leave her moorings, but instead there were men on board all day at work repairing the damage done in the race on Saturday. This amounts to the bending of several of the interior braces. It was also found that she leaked some in the race and water was pumped out of her to-day, but this amounted to little considering the severe pounding that she got. There is nothing new as yet as to the future movements of the yacht. She will remain here and Capt. Haff will give her tuning-up spins whenever practicable.

Capt. Hank Haff at His Home at Islip. Ist. P. Aug. S .- Capt. Hank C. Haff of the Ist. P. Aug. 8.—Capt. Hank C. Haff of the Independence is visiting his home here. In an interview Capt. Haff stated that he was confident the Independence would prove the better of the Cup yachts after she has received a little "tuning up" and after a few changes are made in her steering gear. Thomas W. Lawson has notified Capt. Haff that the Independence will be kept in commission for a while longer.

C. McDowell Wins Gold Medal for Lowest Score at Otsego.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The seventh annual open tournament of the Otsego Golf Club began to-day at the Cooperstown course with a thirty-six hole qualifying round, the lowest eight scores qualifying for the Coopers-town cup, the next lowest eight scores for the Otsego cup and the third eight for the Consolation cup.

The club has two courses, both of nine oles. One is at the head of Otsego Lake. nine miles away, while the other is within a half mile of Coeperstown. Of the two it must be said that the latter, although not so long, is by far the more sporty. It is laid out over a series of rolling hills, all sloping more or less toward a deep ravine, which runs up through the centre of the concourse and has to be played over several times. Thirty-four cards were returned from the morning round, and the makers all competed in the afternoon. Stephen Clarke, who led the field in the morning, and of whom so much was expected, fell behind his game in the afternoon and finished fourth.

The gold medal offered for the lowest score of the day was won by J. C. McDowell, Elmira. One of the surprises was the poor showing made by A. D. Compton, Westchester Golf Club, who won the tournament last year and followed it up by winning at Richfield Springs. He did so poorly this morning that he was considered out of the first set at least. The short, tricky course was more than he could master, as his stronghold is his long game. His second round was only one stroke better than his first, and he had all he could do to get into the consolation set. The course is only 2,068 yards long and the fron shots have to be placed very true to avoid trouble. This used to be a sort of practice course for the members when they did not have time to take the long nine-mile journey to their regular course. During the day a new professional inje-hole puring the day a new professional inje-hole club's professional, who played in a three-club's professional, who played to break out into enthusiasm if Sir that he was considered out of the first set at least. The short, tricky course was more club's professional, who played in a three-some. His score was: Out. 3, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 4, 4-34. The course being so close to the town the women of the village made the tournament sort of a society event in the afternoon, and were out in large numbers.

They were securely wrapped to prevent any possible trouble from the washing of the sea, but this precaution was unnecessary, as Third Officer Smith, who was busy around the boat, said: "It has been six months since any of the old Atlantic had found its way to the deck." All the spars brought over were tried on the Shamrock II. and gave satisfaction before the jury rig was put in for her voyage across the Atlantic. The Shamrock left port on the same day as the Astoria and those on the steamer are confident that she will arrive here by Saturday, judging from the reports of her progress to the Azores.

A State Interscholastic A. A. to Be Organtzed.

Notices have been sent to the various schools along the Hudson River to have delegates at a meeting to be held in this city next month for the purpose of forming the New York State Interscholastic Athletic Association. In this section De La Salle Institute is the prime mover of the scheme. The new association will comprise twenty schools, high schools receiving the same privilege as the private ones. This will give Brooklyn High boys the chance they have been looking for, inasmuch as they are practically out of the Long Island Interscholastic

Athletic League.
From good authority it has been learned that the new association is going to be the parent body of the small organizations within sixty miles of this city, or in other words, ation of the United States. The latter dis-banded three years ago owing to the lack of interest, due chiefly to the distance the boys had to travel to annual meets. The boys had to travel to annual meets. The new association will not be handicanped in this respect. It will be governed by an advisory board of teachers and principals, who will make the rules. Annual games will be held in different cities and special open events will be arranged for the public schoolboys. Charles Hink, a student of Yonkers High School, said yesterday morning:

"I have received a notice to have delegates at a meeting to be held in this city the first week in September, I will hear in a few days where the meeting will be held and will surely have the school represented. I think it is a good move, inasmuch, as we cannot now get on games with other schools the way we would like them. I think most all the schools as far as Poughkeepsie will join. All games scheduled will be carried out without the cry: We can't come; expense too big." This was the order of things in the National body."

The Atlantic Transport Line steamer Marquette, which arrived yesterday, had on board three polo ponies and three carriage horses belonging to Foxhall P. Keene, who came over on the Celtic after a long sojourn abroad. The ponies were worked pretty hard by thele owner in many matches at Hurlingham and Ranelagh, and as the Marquette encountered good weather the rest on the journey is expected to do them good. All the animals were in fine condition, including Mr. Keene's favorite mare. It was too late to take the horses off yesterday and Foreman Wandell said they would be shipped to-day to hir Keene's home on Long Island. The Atlantic Transport Line steamer Mar-
